

NAHRI

Local Chapter

The National Association of Healthcare Revenue Integrity (NAHRI) offers a myriad of benefits that ensure members stay on top of the latest news and regulations while building meaningful professional relationships.

NAHRI members gain access to in-depth analysis and information in the NAHRI Journal, sample tools and policies in the expansive online resource library, as well as advocacy, leadership, and expertise from the NAHRI Advisory Board.

NAHRI members looking to expand their network beyond our online Forum can become members of our Local and Regional Chapters, where like-minded revenue integrity professionals can exchange ideas and work together to help shape the future of the industry. With so many competing priorities, busy professionals often struggle to carve out time to make connections. NAHRI Local and Regional Chapters allow you to tap into an existing network of peers in your area, making networking simpler and easier than ever. Chapters meet at least quarterly to offer education and conversation that fits effortlessly into your daily routine.

Local and Regional Chapters are included in the NAHRI membership. No additional membership fees are needed to join at this time.

The benefits of Local and Regional Chapter membership include the following:

- Engage in unique networking opportunities. Connect with revenue integrity professionals across your state or region and establish important relationships and long-lasting bonds with your colleagues through educational and networking sessions.
- Share ideas. How are other revenue integrity teams in your region attacking a certain problem? How are other organizations evolving their revenue integrity programs? Work together to exchange thoughts and develop solutions that will impact your revenue integrity department as well as the of your peers.

■ Make your voice heard. Local and Regional Chapters are actively involved in the NAHRI community. Chapters often hold virtual educational sessions—some of which are open to NAHRI members and nonmembers across the country—to share their expertise with others in the industry. Educational sessions not only offer a great way to disseminate innovative ideas, but they also help establish a wide audience for the Local Chapter and offer chapter members the opportunity to hone their speaking skills.

■ Seek guidance. Many of NAHRI's Local Chapter leaders are highly accomplished veterans of the industry. Those looking to break through in revenue integrity can lean on Chapter Leaders for advice and learn from some of the most successful, forward-thinking professionals in the business.

■ Enhance your skill set. Local Chapter officers take on various responsibilities to promote the efforts of the chapter. Several chapters have crafted logos and fliers to grab the attention of colleagues and generate interest. Chapter members with a flair for graphic design or the written word can take advantage of these skills—and further develop them—as they seek to grow awareness for their chapter.

For information about joining or starting a chapter in your region, please visit our Local and Regional Chapter page.

NAHRI members interested in participating in topic-specific discussions with members from various states and regions can inquire about starting a workgroup by emailing associate editor Kevin Duffy at kduffy@hcpro.com.

NAHRI

National Association of Healthcare Revenue Integrity